STATE OF PLAY IN ROCHESTER, NY

- Play is important for the physical, social, and emotional health of all children.¹,²,³
- A recent study shows that 85 percent of mothers in America agree that today’s children play outdoors less often than they did a few years ago.⁴
- Instead of playing outside, studies indicate that 65 percent of children aged 4 to 11 spend on average more than 2 hours a day of screen time.⁵

WHERE DO CHILDREN PLAY?

- In 2009 - 2013, the Healthi Kids Play BEST Action Team worked with five neighborhoods in Rochester: Beechwood, Bridges to Wellness, Dewey-Driving Park, Jefferson Ave. and Project HOPE, to answer the question “Where do our children play?.”
- In the initial scan of 52 playspaces in each of the five neighborhoods indicate children are not always playing at their local park or playground. Playspaces include: private playgrounds, neighborhood or community organizations, schools, parks/playgrounds, vacant lots or parking lots, and the street.

Eighty-three percent of all play in these five neighborhoods is happening outside of public parks and playgrounds (Graph-1).

WHAT ARE THE BARRIERS TO PLAY?

- Healthi Kids and five neighborhood groups focused on 25 playspaces across the city to conduct an assessment.
- Playability reports showed that community members wanted to see better facilities available for their neighborhood kids to play, safer areas to play, and more attractive places to play.6

Healthi Kids is an initiative of Finger Lakes Health Systems Agency. By advocating for a handful of public-policy and practice changes, the Healthi Kids Coalition is blazing a path for healthier, more active children in Rochester and Monroe County, N.Y. Our change agenda calls for better school food, safer play areas, food standards at childhood centers, at least 60 minutes of in-school physical activity, and policies that support breastfeeding.
